Summary

I didn't stumble into product marketing. I planned for it. I chose Industrial Engineering & Management at Shenkar because winning PMMs in SaaS speak both languages — the engineer's and the customer's. That degree gave me the technical literacy to earn that seat at the table. What followed: 20x user growth as PM at Buyverse (100 to 2,000 monthly users), GTM infrastructure built from scratch for 8+ businesses at Talia Chriqui Consulting, and consumer insights experience at Kantar — the world's leading market research firm. I'm actively looking for a Junior PMM or Marketing Operations role in Israeli tech. If you're building a product that deserves a better story, let's talk.

Experience

Buyverse (acquired by Keyz)

Product Manager

2025 - 2026 (1 year)

AI-powered marketplace platform reinventing how people buy and sell in Israel.

Buyers find products through a conversational AI chatbot instead of manual searching; sellers get AI-generated listings, automated buyer interactions, and high-intent lead alerts.

Joined as the company's first Product Manager, responsible for product strategy, growth, and user acquisition. Supported the company through its acquisition process.

- Scaled platform traffic from 100 to 2,000 monthly users (20x) through funnel optimisation, UX iteration, and targeted acquisition campaigns tracked via Google Analytics and LogRocket
- Built the acquisition-ready KPI framework and executive insights dashboard — covering user growth, activation rate, retention, and listing conversion — delivered in Looker Studio and HubSpot

- Mapped the full user funnel from discovery to transaction; identified 3 critical drop-off points and implemented fixes that improved user activation rate by 32%
- Prepared data-driven acquisition insights deck synthesising platform performance, user behaviour trends, and market positioning — directly supporting the due diligence process
- Managed product roadmap and sprint cycles in Jira, aligning dev, design, and marketing around growth milestones
- Ran competitive analysis across AI-powered and traditional marketplace players; translated findings into product positioning and feature prioritisation for go-to-market strategy

- Automated operational workflows with Monday.com and Zapier, saving an average of 7 hours/week per client in manual tasks
- Mapped customer journeys and built ICP profiles for each client, translating findings into goto-market positioning strategies
- Led stakeholder alignment and change management for every system rollout — achieving full team adoption in 3-4 weeks without direct organisational authority
